MULTIDISTRICT LITIGATION

IN RE: SAMSUNG TOP-LOAD WASHING MACHINE MARKETING, SALES PRACTICES AND PRODUCTS LIABILITY LITIGATION

MDL No. 2792

TRANSFER ORDER

Before the Panel:* Common defendants Samsung Electronics America, Inc., and Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd. (collectively, Samsung), together with defendants Best Buy Co., Inc., Lowe's Home Centers, LLC, and Sears Holdings Corporation, move under 28 U.S.C. § 1407 to centralize this litigation in the Western District of Oklahoma. This litigation currently consists of 24 actions pending in 20 districts, as listed on Schedule A. Since the filing of the motion, the Panel has been notified of two related actions.<sup>1</sup> This litigation arises from allegations that certain Samsung top-load washing machines have design and manufacturing defects that may cause machine parts to detach, break apart, or explode during the spin cycle, and that a voluntary recall issued in November 2016 fails to provide adequate relief to consumers.

All responding parties support centralization, but there is some disagreement on the transferee district and whether one action focused on the drain pump component (Wagner) should be included in the proposed MDL. Defendant The Home Depot supports transfer of all actions on the motion, including Wagner, to the Western District of Oklahoma. Plaintiffs in 20 actions represented by shared counsel support centralization in the Western District of Oklahoma or, alternatively, the Southern District of Texas or Eastern District of California. They further assert that Wagner should be excluded, arguing that it concerns a categorically different defect. Plaintiffs in the four remaining actions on the motion – Wagner, Moore, Troyan, and Cooper – support centralization in the District of New Jersey or, alternatively, the Southern District of New York.<sup>2</sup> They assert Wagner should be included, arguing that it involves the same Samsung washing machine models as the actions on the motion, and common causation issues are likely to arise in all actions.

* One or more Panel members who could be members of the putative classes in this litigation have renounced their participation in these classes and have participated in this decision.

<sup>1</sup> The related actions are pending in the Northern District of Illinois and the District of Maine. These and any other related actions are potential tag-along actions. See Panel Rules 1.1(h), 7.1 and 7.2.

<sup>2</sup> In the event those districts are not available, they suggest the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, the Southern District of Florida, and the Central District of California.

In their reply brief, the moving defendants assert that the Wagner complaint alleges many of the same design flaws and malfunction issues as the actions on the motion and, thus, should be included.

On the basis of the papers filed and the hearing session held, we find that these actions involve common questions of fact, and that centralization will serve the convenience of the parties and witnesses and promote the just and efficient conduct of this litigation. These putative class actions share complex factual questions arising from allegations that Samsung top-load washing machines subject to a voluntary recall issued November 4, 2016,<sup>3</sup> suffer from design and manufacturing defects that manifest during the spin cycle and cause components, such as the top and drain pump, to detach, break apart, or explode. The shared factual questions include: (1) Samsung's design, testing, and manufacturing of the recalled washing machines; (2) whether defendants knew or should have known of the alleged defects; and (3) the adequacy of the recall. These common issues clearly are raised by Wagner, which alleges many of the same design flaws as the other actions,<sup>4</sup> involves the same washing machine models, and presents overlapping issues concerning the adequacy of the recall remedy. Thus, Wagner will be included in the MDL. Additionally, there is substantial overlap in the putative nationwide and statewide classes in these actions. Centralization will eliminate duplicative discovery; prevent inconsistent pretrial rulings, including with respect to class certification; and conserve the resources of the parties, their counsel, and the judiciary.

We conclude that the Western District of Oklahoma is an appropriate transferee district for this litigation. This district provides a convenient and accessible forum for actions filed throughout the country regarding products sold nationwide. Plaintiffs in 20 actions on the motion and all defendants support this district, where four actions are pending. This district also is centrally located relative to the geographically dispersed domestic defendants, which have their headquarters in Georgia, Illinois, New Jersey, Minnesota, and North Carolina. Defendant Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd., located in South Korea, also supports this district. Judge Timothy D. DeGiusti, to whom we assign this litigation, is an experienced jurist, and we are confident he will steer this litigation on a prudent course.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the actions listed on Schedule A and pending outside the Western District of Oklahoma are transferred to the Western District of Oklahoma and, with the consent of that court, assigned to the Honorable Timothy D. DeGiusti for coordinated or consolidated pretrial proceedings.

<sup>4</sup> For example, Wagner alleges that the drain pump detaches because “the Washing Machines vibrate excessively,” and the motor components are “too powerful” for the machines, resulting in high stress concentrations and breakage. See, e.g., Wagner Compl. ¶¶ 2, 6-7, 32. Plaintiffs in the actions alleging risk of explosion assert the same design defects.
